A Difference

Volunteering for the Edmonton Art Club is not only rewarding for yourself, but also essential for the survival and success of the club

The Edmonton Art Club is dependent upon various grants for operating costs, such as rent, utilities, supplies and equipment. A large proponent of these grants are dependent upon volunteer hours.

This means that the more hours you volunteer, the more funding the club can receive.

The grants also require that the club has a diverse and active membership, with different types of volunteers and individual contributors.

This means that the more you volunteer, the more you help the club meet its goals and obligations.

Volunteering for the Edmonton Art Club is not only rewarding for yourself, but also essential for the survival and success of the club

Volunteering for the Edmonton Art Club is also a way to qualify for two annual scholarships that the club offers.

These scholarships are awarded to members who demonstrate artistic achievement, and volunteer service within the club.

Volunteering for the Edmonton Art Club is not only a way to improve your skills and showcase your work, but also a way to receive financial support and recognition for your efforts.

Volunteering for the Edmonton Art Club is a win-win situation for you and the club.

Volunteering for the art club is not only a way to express your creativity and passion for art, but also a way to find your purpose and connect with others who share your vision.

When you volunteer, you become part of something greater than yourself.

You contribute to the promotion of the visual arts in Edmonton and beyond, through exhibitions, special projects and arts advocacy.

You also join a network of artists who support each other, exchange ideas and inspire each other.

Volunteering for the art club gives you a sense of belonging and fulfillment that money can't buy.
